A press dispatch states that a stage was held up near Trinidad, Colo., and robbed of $22,000. It must have been stage money.

The financial flurry may, as has been stated, have sobered Wall street, but many of its habitués have been driven to drink.

Don't forget that the great resources of Globe remain the same. The panic of 1907 will be ancient history before we realize it.

Governor Curry of New Mexico seems to have slopped over in his effort to stand in with the people of that territory and President Roosevelt also.

Nevada is apparently harder hit than any western state or territory by the so-called panic. Put not your trust in gold when there is copper to tie to.

The territorial fair at Phoenix seems to be proving a success in spite of the financial stringency. Arizona is not easily bluffed despite the wails from Wall street.

A University of Michigan professor says the people of this country should elect Mr. Roosevelt king. Even if they do many will still consider the president a nine-spot.

A news dispatch says that Kaiser Wilhelm will see Secretary Taft when the latter visits the Isle of Wight. He can't help it if both are on the island at the same time.

New Mexico has a well organized statehood league and it is composed almost entirely of those who belonged to last year's joint statehood league. Our neighbors are extremely versatile, to say the least.

Gold is flowing into New York from Europe on every arriving steamship and the yellow stuff stays there. Bankers throughout the country are wondering whether or not there is going to be a core.

Many local merchants are selling goods at extremely low prices in their efforts to discourage the hoarding of coin, but the saloons haven't started cutting prices yet. Redeye and lager remain firm at a "bit" a shot.

The boom recently started by the Bisbee Review for Editor Tom Weedon for delegate to congress seems to have died as suddenly as it was born. But Eugene Brady O'Neill is still making hay in Maricopa county while the sun shines.

There are hundreds of persons in Globe who have resided here long enough to vote, but unless the city council authorizes a special registration, they will be barred from voting at the municipal election next April. There should by all means be a new registration.

Two large producing mines have shut down in Bisbee. In the Globe district not a producing mine has shut down and even the little Gibson with eighteen miles haul is still shipping ore. The big development companies are going right ahead with their work just as though there was no such thing as 13-cent copper and red ten-dollar bills.

George L. Walker, the so-called copper authority, says the surplus of copper metal is about gone. Still a month or two ago George said there was no surplus and lots of people gambled on his tips and lost. Wildcat promoters are not the only ones to be attended to by the mining reformers.

As someone had to be punished, the federal graft probers are soaking the Mexicans who, as members of the Santa Fe federal grand jury, refused to vote for indictments against Phelps Dodge officials and employees for alleged land frauds. It sounds like a joke to hear of convictions for perjury in New Mexico.

The fact that President Roosevelt has declared for single statehood for Arizona and New Mexico should not be taken too seriously. It will be remembered that a year ago his determination to unite the two territories resulted in a frost. An expression from a majority of the senate and house would be more to the point.

ROOSEVELT HAS CHANGED

The New York World says that President Roosevelt, in passing through New York, on his way to Oyster Bay, to vote, seemed a changed individual. His appearance and bearing were that of a sobered, reflective man, and his face had a look of deep responsibility and grave thoughtfulness not seen before by those who know him. The World says: "From now on there will be a different plan of campaign conducted from the White House. While the president is firm in his declarations that there is to be no change in his policy toward predatory wealth and illegal corporations, his methods are to be modified, his attacks more discriminate, and his warfare less destructive."

THE SITUATION

Notwithstanding the weaker tendency in the security market, financial sentiment is calmer, and the belief is growing that the worst is now behind us.

The advance in the rate of discount by the Bank of England to 7 per cent and the Bank of France to 4 per cent naturally disturbs financial affairs abroad, which react here. But we have obtained nearly $40,000,000 of foreign gold, and it is safe to assume that these engagements were made with the consent, if not the assistance, of leading European bankers. The advance in the discount rates of the European banks at this late day is therefore probably a notice merely that Europe has given us all the gold she can safely spare, and that she must now adopt measures to conserve her gold supply.

In a broad way the adverse feature at the moment is the restriction imposed upon general business by the scarcity of currency. This phase of the situation is being remedied as fast as possible. As gold arrives, money will be released to those interior points where it is required to move the crops.

Those people who are disposed to anticipate a sudden and sharp recovery in the situation are apt to be disappointed. It should be a matter for encouragement, however, that conditions are gradually getting better, rather than worse.

A little patience, a good deal of courage and the application of an ordinary amount of common sense will do much to restore the financial equilibrium.

IN ARIZONA

The Nogales Oasis has declared emphatically for statehood, without the aid or consent of New Mexico. Teddy should now see his way clear to act.

Fifteen thousand shares of the Realto Consolidated Copper, Gold & Silver Mining & Reduction company have been sold at sheriff's sale at Nogales. This is probably the closing chapter in the Realto litigation.

Francisca Robles, convicted of making an assault with a deadly weapon at Phoenix, has been sentenced to serve a term of two years at Yuma.

While roping cattle at Dudleyville Judge George Scott got one of his thumbs caught between the rope and the horn of the saddle and the member was completely severed from the hand.

J. D. Cloud, a Bisbee hotel man, is in all kinds of trouble. Last week he was arrested for the theft of a diamond ring and now comes the report that he is in custody for selling liquor without a license.

A small force of miners is to be retained at the Shattuck-Arizona mine at Bisbee. Diamond drill operations are to be continued on the Denn-Arizona.

Mistaking a 50-cent check for one of $50 Scott Whaley, a Bisbee saloon man, gave a customer $49.85. The fellow has disappeared.

Miss Keefe, a Tucson girl who parts her name in the middle with a "y," gave her jewels to a traveling hypnotist fakir, who has since disappeared. And now Mayme says she was under his awful influence.

Governor Kibbey has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation.

Three hundred teachers are attending the association meeting and fair at Phoenix.

Cochise county democrats deny the story that they have joined the "third term club" and are for Roosevelt.

Judge C. H. Brinley, an old-time Yuma lawyer, is dead in Los Angeles.

Yuma, with a picked nine, has entered the Phoenix tourney.

Murray Bateman, a Yuma Espee brakeman, has been convicted of burglarizing a freight car.

The postmasters of the territory assembled at Phoenix yesterday and formed an association. The stamp cancellers attended the meeting on a five-day leave of absence from the postmaster general.

One of the attractions at the territorial fair is Major Ganz, who is said to be the smallest man in existence. He is a native of Iowa and 42 years of age. His height is eighteen inches and he weighs thirty pounds. He wears a No. 7 hat, but No. 6 shoes of child's size. He is an intelligent and interesting talker and is a man of business capacity.

Indians have been stopped from gathering wood on the reservation near Mesa. Two years ago they were given permission to take dead wood for the market, but, getting wise, the red men fixed many trees so they would be dead the following year.

Eggs are selling for a nickel each in Mesa, from which place a few days ago the report came that it was the best poultry growing section in the world.

Dr. Ray Ferguson of the Arizona asylum has been taken to Kansas, where it is thought he will more speedily recover from injuries recently sustained in a conflict with an insane man.

L. Larrabee, a Phoenix mining man, suddenly lost his reason and tried to kill his wife.

The Calumet & Arizona company paid its miners in drafts on New York in sums ranging from $5 to $50.

There are fifty life termers in the territorial penitentiary.

A Sunday closing law is being considered at Douglas. The proposed ordinance takes in all classes of business, including drug stores.

The Gold Belt Development & Reduction company, operating at Morenci, is preparing to install a new mill.

The Cocconino Sun states that at this season of the year many citizens of Flagstaff are leaving for a warmer climate. This is a generalizing way to put it, but it would not do for the Sun to make any direct statements in the funeral notices.

Cotton is to be extensively grown in the Buckeye and Arlington districts next season. There will be a meeting of farmers next week for the organization of a cotton growers' association. The bale of cotton that took the first prize at the great New Orleans cotton exposition was raised at Tempe.

Warren E. Day, son of a prominent Prescott physician is reported lost in the mountains in the Camp Wood country.

Hugo McKee, called a chronic thief, has been declared insane by the Prescott authorities.

ARIZONA

When all you eastern fellows
Get to boasting of your climate;
Of those golden fall days
And that good old harvest time;
When the winds come cold and cutting
And your nose is mighty blue,
As you shovel snow that's frozen
While the breeze is biting you.
Just think of Arizona,
The Gem of all the West;
Her sun-kissed hills and valleys,
Where from cold you get a rest.
Just think of roses blooming
'Neath a clear and smiling sky,
Where the mountains grand and hazy
Make a picture for your eye;
Where the air is warm and mellow,
And the sunbeams mighty fine,
From his home up in the heavens
With that good old summer shine;
When your cold gets down to zero,
You can think of us out here,
A drinking in our beauties
Where no winds are blowing here;
Where no frozen chunks of cuss words
Fall down from your face,
To make you sigh and long for—well,
Or some other warmer place.
—J. WATT HOGUE.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

The Thanksgiving Line-Up.

And now upon life's football field the turkey forms his team. They say that they will never yield, and husky quite they seem. Behold the pumpkin staunch and stout, the mince-meat trim and fine! But we will put them all to rout when we swing into line.

We'll chase the pumpkin off the lot and serve him up in state; And there will not be left a spot to mark the mince-meat's fate. And when we've made the squash a wreck and done the gravy brown, We'll grab the turkey by the neck and make him holler "Down!"

In the Limelight.

"Some of the politicians point to him with pride and others view him with alarm."
"Whom?"
"The president."

What Did She Mean?

"I see a party has opened a boarding place for cats," remarked the talkative boarder.

"What of it?" snapped the landlady.

"Something out of the ordinary, eh?"
"Not at all. I've been boarding 'em for years."

A Marvelous Man.

"Washington was, indeed, a wonderful man."
"Discovered new evidence?"
"Yes. He was one of the wealthiest men of his times, yet he seems to have made himself respected."

Too Sensible.

The lady muskrat puts on fur
An inch or two.
In winter you will ne'er see her
In peek-a-boo.

He Might.

"The janitor has a crying jag. Says he's a miserable worm."
"I wonder if the worm would turn?"
"Turn?"
"Turn on a little steam."

Not Pete.

It was a pretty colleen.
"Out looking for peat?" we affably inquired.
"No, your honor; for Terence."

Statistics.

"My friend, the percentage of men who drink is 85, plus a large fraction."
"Um."
"Are you not interested?"
"Some. What's the percentage of men who are likely to buy?"

Reflections of a Bachelor

Divorce in haste, marry again at leisure.

Sweet sixteen needs a lot of sugaring to taste the way it sounds.
The less a man knows about a thing the more his wife can pretend to people she thinks he does.
Most people think they are saving money when they are only spending it on different things from what they were.
